DEMOCRATS GATHER AT HARMONY DINNER FOR JOUETT SHOUSE

Raskob Tells Plans To Keep Party Active

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Democrats have pretty well put out the fire which threatened to consume them in the last campaign and are ready again today to move forward under the leadership of National Chairman John J. Raskob who announced at a party dinner here last night he had no intention of resigning.

The dinner, given in honor of Jouett Shouse, new chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee, brought together many national party leaders of all factions and gave them opportunity, but repeated demonstrations of applause, to register a vote of confidence in Raskob's leadership.

Throughout the dinner there was a studied effort to keep clear of the internal quarrels which figured in the last campaign. There was no mention of the prohibition question. The name of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, the presidential candidate last fall, was not mentioned although two passing references to him brought the gathering to its feet cheering.

In contrast, Smith's running mate, Senator Robinson, who was the party's vice-presidential candidate, had a place of honor at the speaker's table and addressed the meeting briefly.

It was indicated as the affair proceeded that the Democratic leaders as represented in this gathering are determined to forget as quickly as possible the last campaign and turn their faces toward the future. What will become of the prohibition issue which Governor Smith made one of the chief issues in the last campaign, where the party will turn for its next presidential candidate, are questions which leaders desire to keep out of discussion now.

Raskob announced they want to raise $600,000 through party work in the various states, $350,000 of which would go to paying off the last of the $1,500,000 1928 campaign debt, and $250,000 of which would go toward maintaining national party headquarters here.

Appointment of Charles Michelson, chief of the New York World Bureau here, as publicity chief of the national committee, was announced at the dinner.

The most dramatic moment of the dinner came just at the end when the venerable Senator Overman, of North Carolina, unable to walk without help, was assisted to the platform. The gingerly way in which preceding speakers had skirted around reference to Governor Smith had irritated the elderly senator, whose colleague, Simmons, bolted Smith last fall.

"No cold chill ran down my spine when we named the leader of the last campaign," Overman declared with emotion, as the crowd cheered.

"I'm a Democrat. I'm for harmony. I'm for unity, but unity with courage."

Previously Rep. Byrns, Democrat, Tennessee, referred vaguely to "our leader in the last campaign" and the gathering rose and cheered.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson sat at the speakers' table.

Raskob spoke only briefly explaining his plan for setting up a working party organization which would function every day in the year.

"It is not an intricate job," he said, "but it is one that requires strenuous, continuous effort and a tremendous amount of real hard work; it involves securing what you might call Democratic counselors in every one of the 150,000 election districts in the United States, through which Democratic principles may be taught to the citizens of our country."

Shouse pledged himself to stick to the technical task of organizing without interfering in party politics and without seeking to promote the interest of any candidate.

SOMETIMES THEY HAVE ANTS

CHICAGO, June 11.—Mrs. Anna Scharlog may know her bungalows now, but the time was when she wouldn't let her husband, Alexander, "bring them into the house," he declared.

"She thought a bungalow was just some new kind of a dog," Scharlog told Judge Sabath after his wife, who recently sued for divorce, haled him into court for contempt on the ground he hadn't told her about the four bungalows he had built.

"When I wrote her about them, she told me she didn't want them around. And she said, 'I'd have to feed them myself.'"

"Perhaps," suggested the court, "she couldn't read your writing and thought you meant 'buffaloes.'"

THIS IS COMMENCEMENT DAY

Ohio Colleges Discharge Thousands Of Young Men And Women Tuesday.

THE SCHOOLS of Ohio today discharged into the world thousands of young men and women, skilled in crafts and professions designed to make them a place in the universe.

The day was commencement, the gloriously melancholy period when diplomas and degrees are conferred; when youth bids goodbye to youth and sallies forth with new worlds to conquer.

Ohio State University—the largest institution in the state—sent 1,252 graduates forth, clasping sheepskins and armed with degrees and honors distinguishing them for their work.

Other institutions celebrated commencement yesterday but most of them brought forth their graduates today.

Graduates of Ohio State University, capped and garbed in the conventional black, marched into the Columbus Coliseum at 10 a. m.

FIGHT FLAMES IN RICH SANTA FE OIL FIELDS

Fire Causes Nearly Two Million Dollar Damages

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—Four hundred men today fought towering flames in the rich Santa Fe Springs oil field in an effort to control the blaze which already had done damage unofficially estimated at $1,750,000.

Huge breaks were being dug by steam shovels to prevent spread of the fire. Already two flowing wells, four storage tanks containing 40,000 barrels of oil and eight derricks had been burned.

For several hours the flames had been held in check, but county officials said the danger was not past.

The fire broke out suddenly in Rhode No. 1 well, after it suddenly sanded up. Drillers were called, but as they started to work the well came in with a roar. One of the drillers threw the "Christmas tree" capping the well, but the pressure was so great that the well blew out around the casing, hurling a stream of oil into the air.

Drillers fled for their lives as the oil caught fire from a boiler and spread on to storage tanks. Two of these blew up in quick succession, scattering burning oil and igniting McKee No. 2 well.

RETURN EMBEZZLER

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—Governor Cooper today issued a requisition for the return to Ohio of Charles Amerson Smith, former Marion county auditor, wanted at Marion for the alleged embezzlement of $2940 in county funds over a period of November 6, 1926 to April 30, 1928.

Smith is under arrest at Syracuse, N. Y., and will be returned immediately.

WILCE APPOINTED

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—Appointment of Dr. John W. Wilce, former head football coach, as associate physician of the student medical service at Ohio State University, has been announced by the board of trustees. Dr. Wilce has been a leader in the school since last winter when he resigned as football coach. He will practice medicine here after taking a series of special courses.

PEACE RETURNS

AMSTERDAM, June 11.—A message received from Willemstad, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, by the ministry of colonies today, stated that all was peaceful on the island, thus quieting the rumors abroad of a revolution among the natives.

TRIED FOR MURDER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 11.—Taking of testimony was held today in the trial of Rev. Emerald Rhodes, negro preacher accused of killing Otto Campbell, a member of his congregation. The state is demanding the death penalty. Campbell was killed in a street fight growing out of a church dispute.

GIRL IS DROWNED

SPRINGFIELD, June 11.—Gladys Seward, 14, of Durbin, was drowned in Rock Run Creek here when she waded beyond her depth. Three other school children with her were unable to rescue her.

to receive their diplomas and degrees.

For the first time since 1896, three honorary degrees were awarded. The recipients were Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus of the university, who received a doctor of laws degree; Charles F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research Corporation, doctor of engineering; and Prof. Arthur H. Compton, University of Chicago, doctor of science.

President George W. Rightmire presided and awarded bachelor degrees.

Invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. T. J. Hopkins, pastor of the Tenth Avenue Baptist Church.

The commencement address was delivered by Kettering who was graduated from State in 1904.

Twenty-five students received two degrees each. Twenty-five others were graduated from the

FLYERS FORCED TO RETURN TO ICELAND FOR NEW PROPELLER

Given Welcome At Reykjavik; Next Stop Greenland

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 11.—Capt. Albin Ahrenberg returned to Reykjavik harbor today less than two hours after he had taken off in his Junkers plane Sverige for Trigt, Greenland.

Capt. Ahrenberg returned to exchange the propeller, which proved unsatisfactory. He intended to start again in about two hours.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 11.—Iceland's welcome to Capt. Albin Ahrenberg and his two companions from Sweden lacked none of its warmth today, despite their delayed arrival here from Bergen, Norway, on the second leg of their flight to New York.

The big Junkers plane Sverige (Sweden) skidded to an easy landing on the bay here late yesterday while thousands of persons headed by Iceland officials crowded the shores and cheered heartily.

The fact that the Sverige had come here directly only from the Westmann Islands, less than sixty miles away, made no difference to the Icelanders. They joyfully welcomed the aviators who landed less than twenty-four hours late despite a broken fuel line, and empty gasoline tank and a long wait by a desolate shore for more fuel.

Capt. Ahrenberg, Lieut. Axel Floden and Robert Ljungland reached Reykjavik thirty-five minutes after they took off from the water at the Westmann Islands, where the Danish gunboat Fylla supplied their plane with seventy-five gallons of gasoline taken from here.

The Sverige was brought to the Westmann Islands in tow by the Danish gunboat Odinn, which had picked her up at Skaptaros earlier in the day. The Sverige was forced down at Skaptaros Sunday night when a fuel line broke, spilling all the plane's fuel.

The Swedish consul general here and the Reykjavik harbor master greeted the aviators in a launch where the single motored seaplane came to a standstill on the bay and escorted them ashore for the welcome that awaited them there.

VISION OF FARMING NEEDS STRESSED BY BUREAU PRESIDENT

Members Of Proposed Board Must Know What Is Needed

LIMA, O., June 11.—The farm board which would be created under the agricultural marketing act now before congress, must have a clear vision of the needs of agriculture if it is to be successful, in the opinion of Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Addressing farmers of twenty-eight northwestern Ohio counties at farm bureau week here, Thompson warned that members of the proposed board "must understand what we are trying to accomplish and what is necessary to carry out our aims."

They must give concentrated effort to achieving these aims, he declared, adding that it will be only through organization that the farmers will be able to reap the full benefits which the farm relief legislation would make possible.

"There are three features of the bill," he said, "that furnish great hope for the future. These are, first, the declaration of national policy; second, the creation of a board with broad powers; and third, there is to be placed in this board's hands a large sum of money with which to assist in establishing farm owned and farm-controlled marketing associations."

Co-operation between the rural and city resident was urged by Henry S. Ballard, general counsel for the Ohio Farm Bureau.

"Their interests are mutual," he said, declaring the farm bureau stands committed to accomplish this purpose.

Ballard said agriculture was a basic industry and that whatever benefits agriculture also benefits business and industry.

Ballard recounted that in working towards this co-operative spirit the farm bureau has introduced education in production methods. He cited that education has proven a material aid in co-operative efforts, and added that the bureau has interested itself in general education, health, farm boy and farm girl work and rural home and community betterment.

More than 1000 farmers attended today's sessions.

The Bender proposal to reapportion the state legislature, giving cities more representation, came in for further fire today with C. A. Dyer, legislative agent for the farm bureau federation, characterizing it as a "grave menace to rural Ohio." Farm leaders, on the other hand, were urging general support of the taxation amendment.

BANDITS GET $2,500

CLEVELAND, O., June 11.—Two robbers who held up the East End Savings and Loan Company here late yesterday, bound the secretary-treasurer and two tellers and escaped with $2,500, still evaded capture today. The robbery was one of the most daring here in several months.

Patrolman Held For Murder Result Of Shooting

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., June 11.—Special deputy sheriffs patrolled the streets about Koochiching County jail today to protect Emmett J. White, United States border patrol inspector who shot and killed Henry Virkula, a confederator of Big Fork.

The guard was posted after little groups of angry citizens had gathered about the jail and threatened to "get" White.

A coroner's jury ordered the inspector held on a second degree manslaughter charge pending grand jury investigation of the slaying of Virkula on a lonely road near Little Fork last Saturday night as the merchant and his family drove homeward from here.

The agent, who pleaded he had fired only when it seemed Virkula was about to run him down, was granted a week's continuance when arraigned for preliminary hearing after the inquest ended.

Meanwhile White remained on the government payroll. Customs officials in Duluth announced he would not be suspended until they definitely satisfied themselves he had "exceeded his authority."

A third inquiry was being conducted by United States Attorney L. L. Drill from his offices in St. Paul.

White, testifying at the inquest, added he fired at the Virkula machine when it failed to heed his command to halt.

He said he and another customs agent, Emil Servine, were parked along a wooded highway south of Little Fork when a sedan approached. Both officers got out of their car, Servine carrying a sign reading, "Stop! U. S. Officers."

White related.

"Servine was about ten feet closer to the approaching machine than I, I heard him yell at it to stop, but it kept on coming. I had to jump out of the road to avoid being hit. I fired into the ground and then two more shots at the wheels, hoping to hit the tires."

The car continued twenty-five or thirty feet, then rolled into the ditch. I heard a scream, ran over to the car and asked if any one was hurt. The driver was slumped over the wheel. The woman beside him said, 'You've killed him.' Two children in the back seat were rubbing their eyes. We brought the driver to a hospital here. The woman there said he was dead."

Mrs. Virkula, when on the stand, testified the border guard was in no danger of being run down.

"We weren't going any more than eight or twelve miles an hour," she said. "A light flashed in the road and we saw some sort of a sign. Henry began to slow up. Then I heard shots. I called to him not to run into the ditch as the car lurched sideways. I didn't know he had been hit. But he was dead when these men ran up a minute later."

WARPED MIND TO BE DEFENSE OF SLAYER

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 11.—The story of how a brilliant engineering mind was warped and deadened through illness and use of narcotics will form the basis of Henry Colin Campbell's defense in his trial for the torch murder of a nurse he bigamously married.

The speed of Jersey justice was maintained when David rested the state's case this forenoon. Only a little more than a day was required to select the jury, introduce the confession and hear about a dozen state witnesses.

Francis A. Gordon, young defense counsel for the middle aged engineer, outlined his case, told of how Campbell had been a successful engineer and said he would prove a series of reverses and misfortunes had resulted in Campbell's mental inability to co-ordinate his being faculties.

OUSTED INSPECTOR IS GIVEN HEARING

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—J. C. Vance, ousted as inspector of feeds and fertilizers for the state department of agriculture, appeared before the state civil service commission today, seeking reinstatement. Vance was charged with inefficiency.

The commission will hold a hearing in Galipolis Thursday on charges that William Thevin of the state hospital for epileptics, has abused patients, Thevin, too, has been removed from office.

ACTRESS KILLED BY LEADING MAN

Margaret Lawrence, 38, star of many Broadway plays, and Louis Bennisson, 45, who had been her leading man, were found shot to death in the actresses' pen-house home atop an apartment building in New York City. Police have advanced the theory that Bennisson killed the actress as she slept and then turned the gun on himself.

CINCINNATI GANG LEADER IS SHOT TO DEATH BY DETECTIVE

CINCINNATI, O., June 11.—George "Fat" Wrassman, wanted in connection with several unsolved murders, was shot to death by Detective Joseph Schaefer in a gun fight here early today.

Schaefer and Detective Captain Walter Fricke were lying in wait for Wrassman when the latter suddenly appeared, drew a revolver and fired two shots at Schaefer.

Although beaten to the draw Schaefer's aim was unerring and Wrassman fell with five bullet wounds in his body.

Although Wrassman had never been convicted of a major crime he was often indicted in connection with murders and robberies and only recently was exonerated at Hamilton, of the murder of a man who was shot to death in a saloon there.

Schaefer and other detectives had been on the lookout for Wrassman since an outbreak of killings in Hamilton, Cincinnati and Covington.

Schaefer discovered his automobile parked on a street here shortly after midnight and summoning Capt. Fricke, lay in wait.

Wrassman and another man finally approached and recognizing Schaefer, Wrassman whipped out his pistol and shouted: "I'm going to kill you, you dirty..."

The gunman fired two shots before Schaefer's gun was drawn. As Wrassman fell to the walk, mortally wounded he murmured: "Joe, you got me at last."

Fricke who was hiding in a hallway across the street, ran to Schaefer's aid on hearing the shots.

Wrassman was a dominant figure in the underworld here and was feared for his quick draw and marksmanship, police declared.

His name had been linked with hijacking and bootlegging activities in the Cincinnati-Hamilton area but police had never been able to convict him.

Wrassman was last arrested May 6, as a suspect in an attempted safe robbery. He gave his age at that time, as 34 and registered as a salesman. He was married.

Wrassman came into prominence in July, 1927, when he was arrested in connection with the murder of Thomas Concannon, proprietor of Five Mile House on Rapid Run Pike, and the wounding of Morris Solomon, Newport.

The scene of the shooting was in a garage at the rear of the road.

NO DRY AGENTS ARE ADMITTED

MADISON, Wis., June 11.—Uncle Sam will be asked to keep his dry agents out of Wisconsin.

Assemblyman L. A. Lamoreaux had a resolution ready to introduce in the state legislature today requesting congress be asked to "repeal from enforcing the eighteenth amendment in Wisconsin in consideration of the wishes of the people."

Lamoreaux said the people of Wisconsin were "humiliated" over government officers invading the town of Ripon last Saturday during the diamond jubilee celebration of the birth of the Republican party and pouring out beer which the citizenry had on hand for the visitors.

house. Wrassman pleaded self-defense and was acquitted.

Previously, and after that time, he was linked with several shootings at fishing camps.

Police had almost constantly for surveillance since the shooting for several months, particularly since the machine gun killings in Hamilton. He was known as a pal of Robert Zwick, notorious gunman wanted in connection with the Hamilton assassinations and police have been watching him, hoping he would go to Zwick's hideout.

Zwick is also wanted in connection with the killing of Marshal Peter Dumelle of North College Hill. It was shortly after Dumelle was killed and two of his murderers convicted that Schaefer received an anonymous telephone call, warning him that "certain parties are out to get you."

CHRISTIAN CHURCH MERGER DISCUSSED BEFORE INSTITUTE

Denominations Can Be Christianized Says Dr. Cadman

BUCKHILL FALLS, Pa., June 11.—A union of Christian denomination is possible but the nations of the earth cannot be either "Romanized or Protestantized," Dr. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn, N. Y., told the Christian Herald Institute of Religion in an exhaustive discussion of the church unification movement.

"They can be Christianized," he emphasized.

Dr. Cadman was the chief speaker at the night session of the institute yesterday, although there was much discussion of the unification movement, the institute, which is designed as an open forum for laymen as well as for the clergy, will be in session for four days and those attending hoped that its findings might serve further to crystallize the movement for the unification of the Christian Church under one world wide organization.

"We must not fail to consider the divine side of denominationalism," Dr. Cadman said. "Nor must we forget that our present day denominations may supply excellent models for unity in organization—something which a united church must have."

He expressed the belief that as was Europe the scene of the first separation in the Christian Church, so will the United States be "the scene of the great movement for church unity."

GAVUZZI IN LEAD OF DERBY RUNNERS

ALGODONES, Mex., June 11.—Peter Gavuzzi held the lead in C. C. Pyle's cross-country race today as the runners left here for Calexico, Calif.

Gavuzzi took the lead from John Salo, Passaic, N. J., yesterday when he ran the forty-five miles from Wellton, Ariz., in 5:55:50. Today's race was over a distance of fifty-five miles.

Storm Razes Farm Buildings; Damage Reported Heavy

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 11.—Tornadoes which swept central Minnesota and northern Wisconsin last night, killed at least five persons, injured an undetermined number, and caused extensive property damage, a checkup revealed today.

Three unidentified persons were killed near Kokata, Minn., and two at Kingston, Minn.

Several were reported injured near Ashland and Ladysmith, Wis.

The known dead were: Henry Wournos, Kingston, crushed beneath a wrecked corn crib.

Mrs. Gustave Wantja, of North Dakota, who was visiting a son and was killed when his home crashed.

An unidentified elderly man and woman near Swan Lake.

Elmer Bergren, 30, Kokata, was so badly hurt that he was not expected to live.

The violent winds, accompanied by hail and rain, struck Kingston about 7 p. m. and then moved on to Kokata twenty-five miles distant. Many farm homes and other buildings were wrecked.

CURTIS MAY DECIDE FATE OF DEBENTURE PLAN IF VOTE TIES

Leaders Admit Race Will Be Close As Votes Shift.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The ever-changing shift of votes on the debenture plan of farm relief was so varied today that leaders were in doubt as to the outcome a few hours before the vote was to be taken in the senate late today.

Administration leaders who have claimed as many as three votes majority during the last few days confessed their polls indicated it might be a tie. In this event they counted on Vice President Curtis to cast the deciding vote to defeat the debenture and uphold President Hoover's opposition to the plan.

The debenture advocates said their polls showed 46, 47 or 48 votes in favor of the bill with 48 needed for them to win.

There were whispered reports in the cloakroom that three Democrats who voted for the debenture when it was first adopted by the senate, 47 to 44, were prepared to switch. To counteract this move Senator Shipstead, the Minnesota Farmer-Laborite, who has been ill for weeks, was said to be prepared to leave his sick bed to go to the senate to vote and two Democrats, King, of Utah, and Waino, of Massachusetts, both of whom voted against the debenture previously, were lining up, to vote against the administration bill without the debenture. If these reports were all true, the result would be a tie. They could be only partially confirmed.

As a matter of fact, the debenture supporters seemed for the moment to have the upper hand. If Shipstead leaves his bed and King and Waino vote against the bill, the administration must win three Democrats to bring about a tie and they cannot be certain of any Democratic gains until the vote is taken.

Should the debenturists win, the bill will be sent back to conference with the senate conferees instructed to stick by the debenture plan indefinitely.

If the administration wins, the modified farm relief bill will be sent immediately to the White House for certain signature and a federal farm board may begin within the next two weeks to administer the $500,000,000 revolving fund which the bill would provide.

OHIO WHEAT BETTER BUT CORN DELAYED

COLUMBUS, O., June 11.—Ohio wheat prospects improved slightly during May but the condition of the oats and barley crops is much below average, O. S. Ray of the federal crop reporting service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Ohio Experiment Station, announced today.

"Wet weather during much of May seriously delayed corn planting," Ray added, declaring that "some of the corn was not yet in the ground on June 1, and in places some replanting has been necessary."

Ray said the fruit outlook was poor, especially apples, peaches and pears which he said were below average.

The winter wheat crop, Ray said, will be 36,689,000, on the basis of reports on June 1, as compared to 9,331,000 bushels in 1928.

COMMENCEMENT DAY IN STATE

College of Arts with honors, and professional degrees were awarded to twenty engineers for "meritorious and practical work."

Four law students received the "juris doctor" degree for high scholarship and the usual bachelor of law degree.

Special honors and medals were awarded by President Rightmire to winners who included the following: Wm. P. Tooley, Troy, western conference medal for scholarship and athletic ability; Robert L. Blair, Mt. Vernon, Vandewater poetry prize of $25 for best poem; Bernard F. Gayer, St. Marys, student medal of the American Institute of Architects for excellence of work; George W. Davenport, Canton, Delta Sigma Pi scholarship key for winning highest rank in commerce course.

As the processional into the coliseum began the university band struck up the Ohio State song, then the university hymn, "Carmen Ohio" was sung.

President Rightmire spoke briefly on the "Call to the Work of the World" as the graduates passed from the hall.

Otterbein's commencement was featured by the laying of the cornerstone for a new $150,000 gymnasium. Homer D. Lambert, Anderson, Ind., chairman of the building committee presided. Th stone contained copies of the college publication, The Columbus Citizen, The American Issue, The Year Book and other publications.

The Hon. Florence E. Allen, judge of the state supreme court, was awarded an honorary LL. D. degree. It was the first time in history that Otterbein has conferred an honorary degree upon a woman. Judge Allen also delivered the commencement address.

Three other degrees were conferred as follows:

Calil Oslas, Washington, resident commissioner to the United States from the Philippine Islands, LL. D. degree; Everett Harris, Dayton, editor of Watchword, United Brethren religious paper, A. B. degree, and Rev. Frank Howard Caphart, Parkersburg, W. Va., D. D. degree.

Five hundred graduates received diplomas at Ohio University, Athens. Diplomas and degrees were conferred by President E. B. Bryan while Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota, delivered the commencement address.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR HOME HERE CREATED

What will be known as the Woman's Relief Corps scholarship in Ohio State University to be awarded to the son or daughter of a deceased soldier from the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home at Xenia, such student to be exempt from certain fees, was created by the university board of trustees at a meeting in Columbus Monday.

Get special product they use for cleaning paint-work

The J. B. Ford Company are the largest makers of special cleaning products in the world. In their great chemical laboratories Wyandot was developed. It is so safe that it will not harm your hands or any surface that water itself will not injure. Today practically every hospital and hotel in America uses Wyandot for porcelain, tile, enamel and painted surfaces—and has for years. Through its use millions of dollars for repainting and replacements are saved.

The results Wyandot produces are amazing. A gray, discolored bathtub or tile floor can be wiped white and sanitary. Smudged walls above radiators regain their original beauty.

In fact Wyandot is so safe that a white kitchen door has been wiped clean of smudged-in dirt 143 times before the slightest wear appeared under a microscope.

Wyandot will prove invaluable in your cleaning. It wipes over surfaces so effortlessly that you'll find it hard at first to believe that it cleans. No abrasives—that's the reason. Put it on your grocery list. Only 15c. Guaranteed.

The Doctor says—

"The fads, fancies and contrivances don't amount to anything. Just don't block nature in her work and she will get along all right. Don't wear shoes that make you toe-out when you should toe-in."

And that's exactly what the Doctor Shoe does—it simply doesn't do what should not be done. All it does is to give men's feet the chance they are entitled to.

When you put on a pair of Doctor Shoes you toe-in and walk straight. That's the right way of walking and the right way of walking is all that is needed.

LADIES!

Don't wave your hair daily—or even every week. Here's a way to keep it wavy for days at a time. BEFORE you use your iron, or curlers, DAMPEN the hair with DANDERINE. Just a few DROPS on comb or towel. Your locks will then behave for a MONTH! Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff; dissolves every speck, within five minutes of rubbing into the scalp. But as a wave-preserver on the hair itself, Danderine is a JOY. The best dressing in the world because it doesn't show. Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST

Get a bottle of Danderine and start its benefits today. Every drugstore in America has it, for only 35c. For the finest dressing you could find, and the best aid to hair health yet discovered, just try—

THREE GENERATIONS

"The Home of Thrift"

"Three generations from shirtsleeves to shirt-sleeves." What a comment on human instability and thriftlessness! What a sermon against the overindulgence of the children of the rich and the debauching influence of the lack of the incentive that comes from necessity.

But, happily, not all people of means cultivate extravagance and improvidence in their children. There are many exceptions to that general rule, and in this Association there are scores of families where the rewards of Thrift and Industry have been handed on, and kept, to the third generation. For which class are you training your child? The responsibility for his success or failure rests largely upon you—not upon him.

Cultivate in him habits of industry and thrift and you will have given him that which will be of much greater value than an inheritance of money.

ACCIDENT VICTIM BRINGS SUIT FOR DAMAGES AGAINST AUTOIST

Fred B. Woosley, 42, manager of the local plant of the Louisiana Oil Refining Co., 1111 St. Louis, demands $2,500 damages in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court against John Black, 21, Bellbrook, based on injuries sustained when he was knocked down by Black's auto while crossing to the west side of S. Detroit St., May 23.

College of Arts with honors, and professional degrees were awarded to twenty engineers for "meritorious and practical work."

Four law students received the "juris doctor" degree for high scholarship and the usual bachelor of law degree.

Special honors and medals were awarded by President Rightmire to winners who included the following: Wm. P. Tooley, Troy, western conference medal for scholarship and athletic ability; Robert L. Blair, Mt. Vernon, Vandewater poetry prize of $25 for best poem; Bernard F. Gayer, St. Marys, student medal of the American Institute of Architects for excellence of work; George W. Davenport, Canton, Delta Sigma Pi scholarship key for winning highest rank in commerce course.

As the processional into the coliseum began the university band struck up the Ohio State song, then the university hymn, "Carmen Ohio" was sung.

President Rightmire spoke briefly on the "Call to the Work of the World" as the graduates passed from the hall.

Otterbein's commencement was featured by the laying of the cornerstone for a new $150,000 gymnasium. Homer P. Lambert, Anderson, Ind., chairman of the building committee presided. Th stone contained copies of the college publication, The Columbus Citizen, The American Issue, The Year Book and other publications.

The Hon. Florence E. Allen, judge of the state supreme court, was awarded an honorary LL. D. degree. It was the first time in history that Otterbein has conferred an honorary degree upon a woman. Judge Allen also delivered the commencement address. Three other degrees were conferred as follows:

Calli Oslas, Washington, resident commissioner to the United States from the Philippine Islands, LL. D. degree; Everett Harris, Dayton, editor of Watchdog, United Brethren religious paper, A. B. degree, and Rev. Frank Howard Capehart, Parkersburg, W. Va., D. D. degree.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR HOME HERE CREATED

What will be known as the Woman's Relief Corps scholarship in Ohio State University to be awarded to the son or daughter of a deceased soldier from the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home at Xenia, such student to be exempt from certain fees, was created by the university board of trustees at a meeting in Columbus Monday.

GLEANERS' CLASS HOLDS ELECTION

Mrs. Carl Benner was elected president of the Gleaners' Class of the First M. E. Church when the class held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Weiss, White Chapel, Monday evening. Other officers elected were: Mrs. Fred Snyder, vice president; Mrs. Guy McCoy, secretary and Mrs. Lucy Fawcett, treasurer.

Forty-five members were present at the meeting at which time it was decided to hold a picnic at Shawnee Park, July 8. Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed. The members participated in games and contests, the following winning prizes: Mrs. Roy Ireland, Mrs. A. E. Faulkner, Mrs. Carl Benner and Mrs. Lucy Fawcett.

The hostesses served a refreshment course, the color scheme of pink and white being used in the appointments. A profusion of roses and other garden flowers were used in the decoration of the Weiss home. Assisting Mrs. Weiss were: Mrs. Harold Fawcett, Mrs. Vernon Hampton, Mrs. Charles Toms, Mrs. Orville Tucker and Mrs. Elmer Fawcett.

Mrs. Earl Wilmott (Mary Katherine Geyer), a former member of the class, who is here on a furlough from China, was a guest at the meeting.

GIVEN POT LUCK

DINNER ON BIRTHDAY. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ashbaugh of W. N. Scarff's farm, south of New Carlisle, were delightfully entertained with a pot luck dinner at their home Sunday, the occasion being Mr. Ashbaugh's forty-seventh birthday. A large birthday cake graced the table.

Trousseau Millinery

The large black "picture hat" of cellophane straw is very smart for summer afternoon wear, says Frances Clynne, and is a sensible addition to the bride's trousseau. The combination of light and dark felt, below, is also very smart.

Mr. Paul Satterfield, Miamisburg, underwent an operation at the offices of Drs. Madden and Shields for the removal of his tonsils and adenoids, Tuesday morning.

Little Cecelia Rice, Chicago, who is visiting her grandparents in Cedarville, underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils and adenoids, Tuesday morning.

IMPROPER LIGHTS, OBSCURED LICENSE PLATES, ATTACKED

Auto drivers who roam the highways of Greene County with their cars insufficiently lighted or with their license plates concealed from view are to be rounded up by county authorities under a statewide campaign sponsored by the state bureau of motor vehicles between June 15 and 29, Sheriff Ohmer Tate warned Tuesday.

The state campaign will apply mainly to rural districts and the smaller cities and villages. No excuses will be accepted. Sheriff Tate declared, and offending motorists will be promptly cited into Probate Court.

So called "one-eyed" night drivers and those motorists who drive with trunks and spare tires hung over their license tags, will be the particular objects of the drive.

Local authorities have also been instructed to bear down on drivers who squirt oil on their tags so dust will collect on them and prevent their apprehension through the number system.

PROPOSED WATER SOFTENER IS EXPLAINED TO ROTARY CLUB

Advantages of a proposed water softening system at the Xenia municipal waterworks plant were outlined in a talk made by T. H. Zell, superintendent of the plant, at the invitation of members of the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon at the Elks' Club Tuesday.

Superintendent Zell pointed out that Ohio has 371 municipal water plants and that twenty-two cities ranging in population from 1,500 to 300,000 have water softening systems.

"A majority of small plants like ours obtain their supply from wells and have in most cases either iron or hard water, many times both. However, we have a very efficient iron removal plant. This does not soften the water but is one of the necessary steps toward the process of softening.

"Xenia's water is very hard because of the limestone strata in this vicinity. Our water contains large quantities of calcium and magnesium salts and analysis shows it to be among the hardest in the United States as it contains 369 parts of hardness. Many cities are softening their water although their water has a much lesser degree of hardness than ours."

Manufacturing interests are also more easily induced to locate in cities having soft water supplies, the superintendent said.

Superintendent Zell revealed that the local plant recently closed an agreement with the O. S. and S. O. Home to furnish water to that institution and declared this will amount to approximately 100,000 gallons per day.

"We could probably contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad for a like amount if our water were softened," he added. "This would, of course, give up a larger volume of sales and our income would be more in keeping with the cost of operation."

At present the plant is in no position financially to put in a softening plant without a slight increase in rates. Superintendent Zell asserted, since the cost of installation would have to be paid out of the revenue of water.

He explained that last year for example, the plant was required to furnish free water in such quantities that it amounted to $17,229.07, whereas if the plant were a privately owned utility, this water could not have been furnished free of charge.

In 1928 the plant supplied free water for 223 fire hydrants at a cost of $14,495, for one water trough at a cost of $259.94; comfort stations in the Court House, $688.19; sewer flush tank, $122.35; City Hall, $892.49; fire department building, $29.40; Court House fountain, $78; drinking fountain at bank corner, $37.20; drinking fountain at "Five Points," $7.30; and street sprinkling, $619.59.

These figures do not include the fact the Court House lawn is not metered, and that city schools were provided with water without charge between 1920 and 1928 at an average loss in revenue of $1,400 a year, a total of $11,200 for the eight years.

It would probably cost Xenia about $30,000 to install a suitable water softening unit and the maintenance and operation would average $5,000 a year, the superintendent estimated.

The present water rate is 32.4 cents per 1,000 gallons with a minimum charge of $2.75, which gives the user 8,500 gallons quarterly.

If the rate were raised to forty cents a 1,000 gallons the minimum charge would be $2.20 per 1,000 less the discount of 5 per cent."

Superintendent Zell said that a canvass of accounts of domestic water users in Xenia as shown by his books would indicate that 60 per cent of the families are not paying more than the minimum rate. "In other words the increase to these families would be forty-five cents for three months or if the bills were collected monthly, an increase of fifteen cents a month."

The Xenia Retail Merchants' Association recently went on record as favoring the plan and reported its sentiment to City Commission. It is the opinion of merchants that such a system would save Xenians thousands of dollars annually, besides promoting the general health. The purity of the water would be enhanced and the necessity for residential water softening systems would be eliminated.

Does his mother realize?

Considerate mothers will act at once.

Constipation will blunt the keenest intellect, and many a child is classed as "dull" through bowels failing to act regularly. They need mother's watchful care.

If your child is listless, dull and out-of-sorts, it means that the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with constipated waste. Just give a dose of "California Fig Syrup" and soon all the sour bile and irritating poison are moved from the bowels, and the child is bright and energetic again. "California Fig Syrup" cleans and regulates the bowels, and insures pure blood, clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and promotes sturdy growth.

To be sure that the Fig Syrup you buy is the genuine, look for the name "California" on the package. —Adv.

GLEANERS' CLASS HOLDS ELECTION

Mrs. Carl Benner was elected president of the Gleaners' Class of the First M. E. Church when the class held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Weiss, White Chapel, Monday evening. Other officers elected were: Mrs. Fred Snyder, vice president; Mrs. Guy McCoy, secretary and Mrs. Harold Fawcett, treasurer.

Forty-five members were present at the meeting at which time it was decided to hold a picnic at Shawnee Park, July 8. Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed. The members participated in games and contests, the following winning prizes: Mrs. Roy Ireland, Mrs. A. E. Faulkner, Mrs. Carl Benner and Mrs. Lucy Keiter.

The hostesses served a refreshment course, the color scheme of pink and white being used in the appointments. A profusion of roses and other garden flowers were used in the decoration of the Weiss home. Assisting Mrs. Weiss were: Mrs. Harold Fawcett, Mrs. Vernon Hampton, Mrs. Charles Toms, Mrs. O'Neill Tucker and Mrs. Elmer Fawcett.

Mrs. Earl Wilcott (Mary Katherine Geyer), a former member of the class, who is here on a tour from China, was a guest at the meeting.

GIVEN POT LUCK DINNER ON BIRTHDAY.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ashbaugh of W. N. Scarff's farm, south of New Carlisle, were delightfully entertained with a pot luck dinner at their home Sunday, the occasion being Mr. Ashbaugh's forty-seventh birthday. A large birthday cake graced the table.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Ashbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Miller and daughter Betty, Osborn; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller and sons, Marvin and Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Tracey and daughter Mary Elouise, Byron; Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and daughters, Anna and Catherine and Mr. Fred Miller New Carlisle; Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Ashbaugh and daughters Doris and Thelma, Trebeins; Mrs. Rose Ankeney, Miss Marianna Hawker and Mr. Harry Hawker, Mr. Frank Hawker, Miss Margaret Badgely, Dayton; Miss Margaret Ashbaugh, Miss Bettrina Miller, Mr. Howard Ashbaugh, Mr. Ben Ashbaugh, Mr. Robert Ashbaugh, and Mr. Ralph Johannes, Xenia; Miss Lena Darnier, Mr. Asa Darnier, and Mrs. Raymond Ashbaugh, Yellow Springs, and the honor guests.

IMPROPER LIGHTS, OBSCURED LICENSE PLATES, ATTACKED

Auto drivers who roam the highways of Greene County with their cars insufficiently lighted or with their license plates concealed from view are to be rounded up by county authorities under a statewide campaign sponsored by the state bureau of motor vehicles between June 15 and 29, Sheriff Obermeyer warned Tuesday.

The state campaign will apply mainly to rural districts and the smaller cities and villages. No excuses will be accepted, Sheriff Tate declared, and offending motorists will be promptly cited into Probate Court.

So called "one-eyed" night drivers and those motorists who drive with trunks and spare tires hung over their license tags, will be the particular objects of the drive. Local authorities have also been instructed to bear down on drivers who squirt oil on their tags so dust will collect on them and prevent their apprehension through the number system.

PROPOSED WATER SOFTENER IS EXPLAINED TO ROTARY CLUB

Advantages of a proposed water softening system at the Xenia municipal waterworks plant were outlined in a talk made by T. H. Zell, superintendent of the plant, at the invitation of members of the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon at the Elks Club Tuesday.

Superintendent Zell pointed out that Ohio has 377 municipal water plants and that twenty-two cities ranging in population from 1,500 to 300,000 have water softening systems.

"A majority of small plants like ours obtain their supply from wells and have in most cases either iron or hard water, many times both. However, we have a very efficient iron removal plant. This does not soften the water but is one of the necessary steps toward the process of softening."

"Xenia's water is very hard because of the limestone strata in this vicinity. Our water contains large quantities of calcium and magnesium salts and analysis shows it to be among the hardest in the United States as it contains 359 parts of hardness. Many cities are softening their water although their water has a much lesser degree of hardness than ours."

Manufacturing interests are also more easily induced to locate in cities having soft water supplies, the superintendent said.

Superintendent Zell revealed that the local plant recently closed an agreement with the O. S. and S. O. Home to furnish water to that institution and declared this will amount to approximately 100,000 gallons per day.

"We could probably contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad for a like amount if our water were softened," he added. "This would, of course, give up a larger volume of sales and our income would be more in keeping with the cost of operation."

At present the plant is in no position financially to put in a softening plant without a slight increase in rates, Superintendent Zell asserted, since the cost of installation would have to be paid out of the revenue of water.

He explained that last year for example, the plant was required to furnish free water in such quantities that it amounted to $17,229.97, whereas if the plant were a privately owned utility, this water could not have been furnished free of charge.

In 1928 the plant supplied free water for 223 fire hydrants at a cost of $14,495, for one water trough at a cost of $259.94; comfort stations in the Court House, $688.19; sewer flush tank, $122.35; City Hall, $592.49; fire department building, $29.49; Court House fountain, $75; drinking fountain at bank corner, $57.29; drinking fountain at "Five Points," $7.30; and street sprinkling, $619.20.

These figures do not include the fact the Court House lawn is not metered, and that city schools were provided with water without charge between 1920 and 1928 at an average loss in revenue of $1,400 a year, a total of $11,200 for the eight years.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
THE PUBLIC RECOGNITION—Jesus, when he was baptised, went up straightway out of the water; and lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him: And lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.—Matthew 3:16, 17.

SENATE SECRECY RULES
Abandonment of secrecy with respect to roll calls taken in executive sessions of the senate seem to be "indicated," as the doctors say, because in view of the character of a part of the present personnel of the body, maintenance of the old rule has become impractical. Pledges to keep silent mean nothing.

But the suggestion by Senator LaFollette that the practice of considering and debating presidential nominations behind closed doors be likewise given up, is quite another matter.

It would be foolish and against sound national policy to do anything of the sort. An immediate result would be an increase of reluctance among citizens of the sort most desirable for public office to permit their names to be sent in. They would not care to become butts of the group of reckless scandal mongers which always is more or less in evidence in the upper house of congress.

Beside that, a complete discontinuance of the executive session as an institution of the senate would almost inevitably follow the adoption of Mr. LaFollette's proposal with respect to those that take up executive nominations. For if the arguments of the gentleman from Wisconsin are valid in one instance they are in the other. Then we would find the upper house, from time to time, shouting information regarding the most vital and most secret matters of national policy and diplomacy into the ears of the world, and giving out important information of direct interest and benefit to rivals and even to potential enemies. There is neither need nor excuse for any such departure.

HIGH SPEED AND SAFETY
Every year, as thousands of additional automobiles come into use and traffic congestion grows, the accident risk increases.

This is being offset to a great extent by the trend in automobile construction and modern highway design.

Present-day cars, with four-wheel brakes, non-shatterable glass and all-steel bodies, give the rider a maximum of mechanical protection. In an emergency any one of these features may very easily mean the difference between a fatality and a slight mishap.

The new trend in highway building is likewise conducive to the highest possible degree of safety. Engineering specifications call for wider roads, many of them capable of carrying four cars abreast, with smooth "non-skid" surfaces and banked turns.

INTELLIGENCE

The only really intelligent person is the one who is willing to be more so.

BE CAUTIOUS

The man whom it is difficult to arouse to fighting mood is the man you had better not try to arouse to fighting mood. The little yelpers don't count.

WEATHER

The science of weather forecasting is one of the most important and interesting of all man's activities. It is said that the earliest weather forecasting service was set up in France as the result of a destructive storm in 1854. Today millions read the weather forecast, base their business on it, rely on it, make and lose money on it, depend upon it for a considerable share of their happiness. We joke about the weather bureau and the weather man, but it is one of the most serious businesses in the world. It is capable of great development. Constantly we are learning more about forecasting. Before many years the science will have become a great deal more exact than it is today.

UNITY

No church subject so appeals to the layman's mind as the subject of church unity. Churches of various denominations, overlapping each other's territory, are out of line in a world which grows more efficient. Canada some time ago arrested the attention of the world with the formation of its United Church. And yet there is much distance to go in Canada. About 900 churches of one of the denominations concerned in the merger failed to join.

IS IT PROHIBITION

It is said that the ratio of productivity between the worker in America and the worker in England is the ratio between $3,750 and $1,500. Another authority says that seven American workmen are the equal of ten British workmen. The British workman is likely to be a beer drinker while the average American worker is not. One wonders what part prohibition plays in productivity.

HONESTY IN PENSION SYSTEM

By RAY LYMAN WILBUR

Secretary of the Interior
(Ray Lyman Wilbur was born at Boonesboro, Ia., April 13, 1875. He is a graduate of Stanford University and Cooper Medical college, later studying abroad. He holds honorary degrees from several universities. From 1900 to 1903 he was assistant professor in physiology at Stanford university, and professor in medicine there from 1903 to 1915, being dean of the school for five years. Since 1916 he has been president of Stanford. He was made secretary of the interior by President Hoover last March. In 1917 he was chief of the conservation division, U. S. Food Administration in Washington. He is a member of various societies and medical organizations.)

The pension bureau in the department of the interior has a long and splendid record of service. In its keeping are the records of the soldiers and sailors who have fought the battles of their country. A very large proportion of the national expenditures is due directly or indirectly to war. Determination of what this charge probably will be in the future is a primary function of government budgeting.

It has been the aim of the United States to be generous in its treatment of the injured, sick or infirm soldier or sailor. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been expended by the bureau of pensions rest upon laws passed by congress. These, however, are likely to be founded on the recommendations of the bureau and should be based upon its experience in pension administration.

The large problem of handling the pension affairs of those having proper places on the list needs to be carried out sympathetically and efficiently, both from the human and from financial standpoint. Honesty, fairness, justice, and promptness should be the aim of the pension office.

It is particularly important to eliminate all elements of fraud in connection with pensions. While there is every reason for helping those who have rendered the requisite service to our country, there is also every reason for not bringing into the pension system anyone who is not deserving.

If the pension bureau is to be effective, a high grade of medical service is demanded. The important individual decisions, frequently involving substantial sums of money, should be based largely upon the physical findings of the medical staff.

The equitable adjudication of pension claims is important alike to the individual and to the government.

ANOTHER MELTING POT

HOW TO ACHIEVE BEAUTY

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Now we come to two other branches of beauty preparations. What are their purposes and how are they used?

We have discussed the function of cleansing creams and stimulants and how they act on the skin. The fundamental beauty treatment so far has two steps, the first, cleansing, and the second, clearing and stimulating. The complete fundamental treatment has a third, which is toning. This means using a tonic, slightly astringent lotion which will firm the skin and refine the pores to keep them close and working normally. Every skin except the very young child's skin needs this step, because as skins grow older and weather and nerves and other conditions affect them, the pores lose their natural elasticity or power to open and close with a snap. They grow relaxed and often stay wide open. These tonics act as an artificial stimulant and brace.

For the oily or normal skin there is one skin toning lotion and for the dry skin another, less astringent. Astringents mean literally a drawing up or binding. The lotions which have this effect usually include among their ingredients witch hazel or alcohol, two well known astringents. But either of these used alone will prove too drying, and too harsh for most types of skin. Therefore the best skin tonics include also ingredients which soften and protect the skin as well. They have a white, milky look by which you may recognize the protective type of lotion. Such a lotion patted on the skin after a cleansing and stimulating treatment, makes the perfect third step. It closes the pores and leaves a delicate protective film over the skin, an excellent foundation for powder.

For the young or normal skin, then, these three steps are enough. Cleansing and clearing, stimulating and toning. A skin cared for faithfully with these three steps from youth will preserve its lovely youthful glow and texture into old age.

The older skin, however, or the skin that has been neglected in its youth, needs still further treatment. As soon as lines and wrinkles begin to show around the eyes and mouth and on the throat, a skin must have help in nourishing.

The blood, of course, is the natural nourisher. But when this source shows signs of being weak you have recourse to other means, namely, nourishing creams. The nourishing creams are rich creams replete in fat which the skin can and must absorb in some way if it is to be soft, supple and smooth.

These creams, to do any good to the skin, must be patted in briskly. The epidermis is ordinarily so resistant that the cream cannot get down into it to do any good unless it is patted in. A stimulant used before a nourishing cream makes the skin more receptive to the nourishing qualities of the cream. When the blood is brought up, and all the skin is alive to the work it has to do, these creams take effect.

So, for the skin that is older or badly lined another step must be added to the regular treatment. This is the nourishing step. It comes after the stimulation and before the toning.

Pure olive oil is an excellent nourisher. And if you are sceptical about the value of a nourishing cream, or if you are unable to procure a reputable one at any time, use olive oil. Pat it into the skin and see how quickly it is absorbed and how much smoother and softer and more nourished your skin appears after its continued use.

The World and All

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

Should Just Anyone Drive?

A sweet little fair-haired girl of ten lives across the street from us in Yonkers. She plays with my little girls, and is in the same school with them.

Recently this little Elvira was playing with a ball, and stepped off the sidewalk near a small steel bridge.

A woman was driving a car. She seemed, according to witnesses to lose all control of the car as soon as she saw the little girl.

The car went crashing into the steel side of the bridge, pinning the little girl there.

Elvira is in a hospital, one hand badly mangled, one thumb amputated, and possibly other serious operations coming.

Now, I arise to remark that in a case in which the driver loses control of a car, with serious results to another person, the driver should be forever forbidden to drive a motorcar.

Many persons are temperamentally unfit to drive an automobile. I believe myself to be one such. So I have never driven. I do not want a car, because I do not want to maim anybody's little daughter. I wish that thousands of persons who are not better fitted to drive a car than I am would be forbidden to drive. There'd still be plenty of drivers for all the cars the highways will hold for another generation.

I know people who drive a car just as naturally and easily as I write these lines with a typewriter. They never have accidents. They aren't afraid, but they are careful. Such persons don't throw up their hands and yell when they see somebody in the road or near the road.

They act as quickly as an electric switch.

Let these people do the driving. They're welcome to my place on the highway. But for the safety of everybody and everybody's children, let's find a way of ruling permanently off the roads those drivers who are temperamentally unfitted for driving.

Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know.—Montaigne.

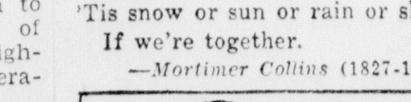

TO F. C.

FAST falls the snow, O lady mine,
Sprinkling the lawn with crystals fine.

But by the gods we won't repine
While we're together,
We'll chat and rhyme, and kiss
And dine,
Defying weather.

So stir the fire and pour the wine,
And let those sea-green eyes divine
Pour their love-madness into mine:
I don't care whether
'Tis snow or sun or rain or shine
If we're together.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Fruit Cup Chicken Croquettes
Mushroom Sauce Ginger Ale Salad
Tiny Baking Powder Biscuits
Ice Cream Angel Food
Coffee

This menu would be appropriate for a wedding dinner or a shower luncheon or dinner.

Today's Recipes

Chicken Croquettes—Remove the meat from the bones of a well cooked fowl, return the bones and skin to the liquor in which the chicken was cooked and boil the liquor down to half quantity. Mince the meat and make a very small amount of white sauce, sufficiently thickened to hold the chicken together, and shape into croquettes. Roll them in egg and cracker crumbs, having seasoned the mixture to taste, and set aside for several hours. Croquettes to stand for a while after the eggs and crumbs are applied than when fried at once. Fry in deep fat to a golden brown. A bit of green pepper added to the croquettes makes a nice seasoning.

Mushroom Sauce—Place a piece of butter the size of an egg in a saucepan and add two tablespoons flour. Blend the two and gradually add the liquor in which the chicken was cooked to the amount of one cup; the stock to have been strained before using. When this sauce has thickened, add just enough cream to give the desired consistency for pouring over the croquettes. Add a cup of mushrooms which have been peeled, cut in pieces and sauted in butter. Serve over the croquettes.

Ginger Ale Salad—Soak two tablespoons gelatin in one-half cup cold water for ten minutes. Boil together one cup water, one-half cup sugar, one-half lemon cut in slices two leaves fresh mint, until sugar is melted. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. When cool, strain and add two cups ginger ale and pour into a large shallow pan. When ready to serve, cut in squares and place on shredded green lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Suggestions

Spots on Furniture
Those white spots that are so apt to remain on a table after a bowl of flowers or a moist tumbler has been standing on it and the whitish spots known as "fog" on furniture, require the same treatment, namely, wringing a cloth as dry as possible from weak ammonia water and rubbing spot with this. That will restore the color; then restore the finish by polishing with your favorite furniture polish.

Alcohol spilled on furniture will leave a white spot, which can be removed by rubbing with spirits of camphor.

White spots left by hot dishes will disappear if touched up with a brush dipped in spirits of nitre and immediately rubbed with a cloth moistened with sweet oil.

Important Marketing Notes.

Ask the butcher to cut off the rib end from the rib roast of beef you select. It will make a good soup, while if left on and roasted with the meat it will be largely wasted.

Choose medium-sized carrots that are crisp when broken and feel firm to the touch. Leaves should be green and fresh. Buy fresh carrots in bunches; those sold by the pound are cold storage carrots—buy the smaller ones.

Select radishes that are small and crisp, and the leaves should be fresh. Select fruits and vegetables yourself, and remember it is quite important that these be fresh.

Ask for the foreleg or neck of lamb for the stew, or if your family prefers fat meat, select the plate.

DIET AND HEALTH

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Caloric Bookkeeping

Miss E. has devised a daily caloric bookkeeping system which she says helps her to reduce, for it keeps up her interest and continually keeps before her mind's eye the idea of how many calories she has to lose, rather than pounds. Briefly it is this:

She weighs 140 pounds and wants to lose 30, as her normal weight is but 110. Thirty pounds of fat at 4000 calories a pound totals 120,000, so she is harboring 120,000 C. more than she should. Every day she deducts the number she takes less than her maintenance diet (which she counts as 2000), for she knows her excess poundage will have to supply that. When she takes a brisk walk of an hour, she also deducts 150 C. for that. She loves to see those undesirable calories gradually diminishing (They had gone down to 92,000 and with them seven pounds of excess fat, when she wrote us last.)

Some of you may get a kick out of watching calories diminish. I get more out of watching my weight line go down on a weight chart. It would take up too much space to tell you how to make one, but if you will go to the public library and look up my book Diet for Children, on page 286 you will find a picture of one with directions how to use it. (This is the only one of its type that I know of that has been published.) You can purchase pads ruled off in little squares, and make some charts for yourself.

Reducers need a good scale. All families should have one for it is one of the best pieces of furniture a household can have. Not infrequently baby scales are purchased when the new baby arrives. It would be better to get a larger scale that can be used after babyhood and for the rest of the family, too. It won't cost very much more. The baby can be placed in a basket and weighed on it as accurately as on the baby scales. You would have to get the regular physician's scales, for the small "automatic" bathroom scales with the dials on the face cannot be used for the baby's weighing, for it doesn't register the ounces accurately enough. The reducer will save enough on food bills to invest in a scale! The gainers will increase their efficiency so they can earn more if necessary. So will the reducers, for this matter.

We have instructions on gaining and losing weight which can be obtained by following column rules.

"Is there any danger in giving away clothes that have belonged to a tubercular patient? The room he died in has been fumigated with sulphur. It is necessary to destroy the bed and bedding and clothes, if they have been sent to the cleaner first? Some of the clothes have not been worn for a year, the time he spent in bed."

First let me tell you that fumigation by sulphur or formaldehyde is not effective in destroying germs. R. Soap and water, with a little lysol or carbolic acid in it, to cleanse the woodwork and the floors and furniture, and thorough sunning and airing, are all that are necessary. The patient's clothes can be sent to the cleaners or washed in gasoline. (There is no danger now in the case anyway, for the germs do not live long outside the body.) The bed clothing can be boiled, and the mattress can be scrubbed over with soap and water, the same as the furniture, and put in the sun for several hours, until thoroughly dried.

We have a list of books on tuberculosis written by authorities for the layman which can be obtained by following column rules.

LIVING AND LOVING

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Even two weeks before you expect to be married is not too late to break a marriage off if you are not sure of yourself. A jealous, nagging disposition is not likely to be reformed by the wedding ceremony. Only a realization of one's own selfish nature and the misery it brings to loved ones, coupled with a determined, earnest effort to change will do that.

A prospective bride writes: "DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I need advice badly and know of no one that can give it as well as you. Of course it's a man, I've kept steady company with one fellow for two years and now am to be married in about two weeks."

"Virginia, I care a lot for him, but he is so jealous; he is always nagging, accusing and throwing up other men to me. He won't trust me; says he loves me, yet abuses me at times. Do you think I would make a mistake to take the step that might mean disaster?"

"Your advice is needed and certainly would be highly valued."

"UNHAPPY."

I'd be afraid to take a chance, dear. If he makes you unhappy now, when he should be doing everything possible to make you happy, what will he do when your whole happiness rests with him? He is thoroughly selfish, and my advice is to break the engagement. It is a pity you did not do it before.

If you think you cannot do that, postpone it for a time and tell him very frankly why. Tell him that you are afraid to trust yourself to him, and that unless he trusts you and ceases nagging you will break off with him completely.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I just wonder if you could answer this question for me. If you do I will appreciate it greatly. Can a girl 18 years old wear long, white sailor pants? I am going to Coney Island and some one told me I could get put out of an inside attraction house. Do you think that is so? Is it all right to dance in one of the dance halls with those pants on? I would love to wear them, but then it wouldn't be so nice if I got arrested. Do you think they look 'tough,' even though I wouldn't travel in them?"

"LORELEI."

PETER'S ADVENTURES

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

A Newcomer With New COMPLAINT

Peter rubbed his eyes. The sun was shining as brightly as could be. Had it played tricks with his sight? Where did those flying spots of bright color come from? Where had they gone?

To be sure everything was very gay down in the swamps, but he could see nothing as brilliant as those flying spots had been. The flowers could dance to their hearts' content as long as they stayed upon their stems—certainly it was no blossom that had whizzed by him!

Had he really seen something or was he just imagining it? Peter felt all right, but after the night he had just spent there was no telling—maybe something was the matter with him.

Again the boy rubbed his eyes while the Wild Geese looked at him in astonishment, wondering what in the world was the matter with their Two-Legged friend. Before they could ask a sweet voice sighed:

"I wish the Two-Legs would stop taking Cardinals captives, for I suppose they never will, not while our coats are red and there is a Grosbeak left among us who can sing."

To the front! To the right! To the left! The boy glanced in every direction, but nothing or nobody did he see except his friends, the Wild Geese. Yet the same voice went on speaking.

you, Heron, your troubles are over, while, when the same thing happens to us, our troubles have only just begun."

There was but one more direction in which to look. Peter whirled around. Sure enough, directly in back of him, swaying back and forth on a slender reed was perched a very gorgeous bird indeed.

"Hello, Two-Legs," said the fellow, "I was wondering when you would turn around. Blue Bunting and I whizzed right by your nose a while ago and you never noticed us. We are accustomed to more attention than that from the people of your race. I can tell you."

"What are you fussing about, Cardinal?" asked Heron, suddenly. "First you say you wish the Two-Legs would let you alone, and now you complain because one of them does not run after you. I don't believe you know what you want."

"Oh, yes, I do," chirped the chap called Cardinal. "I want to be free—free to fly where I like and do as I will. Every time I think of being shut up in a house with bars I shudder. But that does not mean that I do not want to be admired for my beauty. I am too lovely to let any Two-Legs pass me by, though I were a common sparrow."

"When the Two-Legs capture

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE PUBLIC RECOGNITION—Jesus, when he was baptised, went up straightway out of the water; and lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him: And lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.—Matthew 3:16, 17.

SENATE SECRECY RULES

Abandonment of secrecy with respect to roll calls taken in executive sessions of the senate seem to be "indicated," as the doctors say, because in view of the character of a part of the present personnel of the body, maintenance of the old rule has become impractical. Pledges to keep silent mean nothing.

But the suggestion by Senator LaFollette that the practice of considering and debating presidential nominations behind closed doors be likewise given up, is quite another matter.

It would be foolish and against sound national policy to do anything of the sort. An immediate result would be an increase of reluctance among citizens of the sort most desirable for public office to permit their names to be sent in. They would not care to become butts of the group of reckless scandal mongers which always is more or less in evidence in the upper house of congress.

Beside that, a complete discontinuance of the executive session as an institution of the senate would almost inevitably follow the adoption of Mr. LaFollette's proposal with respect to those that take up executive nominations. For if the arguments of the gentleman from Wisconsin are valid in one instance they are in the other. Then we would find the upper house, from time to time, shouting information regarding the most vital and most secret matters of national policy and diplomacy into the ears of the world, and giving out important information of direct interest and benefit to rivals and even to potential enemies. There is neither need nor excuse for any such departure.

HIGH SPEED AND SAFETY

Every year, as thousands of additional automobiles come into use and traffic congestion grows, the accident risk increases.

This is being offset to a great extent by the trend in automobile construction and modern highway design.

Present-day cars, with four-wheel brakes, non-shatterable glass and all-steel bodies, give the rider a maximum of mechanical protection. In an emergency any one of these features may very easily mean the difference between a fatality and a slight mishap.

The new trend in highway building is likewise conducive to the highest possible degree of safety. Engineering specifications call for wider roads, many of them capable of carrying four cars abreast, with smooth "non-skid" surfaces and banked turns.

The science of weather forecasting is one of the most important and interesting of all man's activities. It is said that the earliest weather forecasting service was set up in France as the result of a destructive storm in 1854. Today millions read the weather forecast, base their business on it, rely on it, make and lose money on it, depend upon it for a considerable share of their happiness. We joke about the weather bureau and the weather man, but it is one of the most serious businesses in the world. It is capable of great development. Constantly we are learning more about forecasting. Before many years the science will have become a great deal more exact than it is today.

HOW TO ACHIEVE BEAUTY

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Now we come to two other branches of beauty preparations. What are their purposes and how are they used?

We have discussed the function of cleansing creams and stimulants and how they act on the skin. The fundamental beauty treatment so far has two steps, the first, cleansing, and the second, clearing and stimulating. The complete fundamental treatment has a third, which is toning. These creams, to do any good to the skin, must be patted in briskly. The epidermis is ordinarily so resistant that the cream cannot get down into it to do any good unless it is patted in. A stimulant used before a nourishing cream makes the skin more receptive to the nourishing qualities of the cream. When the blood is brought up, and all the skin is alive to the work it has to do, these creams take effect.

So, for the skin that is older or badly lined another step must be added to the regular treatment. This is the nourishing step. It comes after the stimulation and before the toning.

Pure olive oil is an excellent nourisher. And if you are sceptical about the value of a nourishing cream, or if you are unable to procure a reputable one at any time, use olive oil. Put it into the skin and see how quickly it is absorbed and how much smoother and softer and more nourished your skin appears after its continued use.

The World and All

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

Should Just Anyone Drive?

A sweet little fair-haired girl of ten lives across the street from us in Yonkers. She plays with my little girls, and is in the same school with them.

Recently this little Elvira was playing with a ball, and stepped off the sidewalk near a small steel bridge.

A woman was driving a car. She seemed, according to witnesses to lose all control of the car as soon as she saw the little girl.

The car went crashing into the steel side of the bridge, pinning the little girl there.

Elvira is in a hospital, one hand badly mangled, one thumb amputated, and possibly other serious operations coming.

Now, I arise to remark that in a case in which the driver loses control of a car, with serious results to another person, the driver should be forever forbidden to drive a motorcar.

Many persons are temperamentally unfit to drive an automobile. I believe myself to be one such. So I have never driven. I do not own a car, because I do not want to maim anybody's little daughter. I wish that thousands of persons who are no better fitted to drive a car than I am would be forbidden to drive. There'd still be plenty of drivers for all the cars the highways will hold for another generation.

I know people who drive a car just as naturally and easily as I write these lines with a typewriter. They never have accidents. They aren't afraid, but they are careful. Such persons don't throw up their hands and yell when they see somebody in the road or near the road.

They act as quickly as an electric switch.

Let these people do the driving. They're welcome to my place on the highway. But for the safety of everybody and everybody's children, let's find a way of ruling permanently off the roads those drivers who are temperamentally unfitted for driving.

Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know.—Montaigne.

TO F. C.

FAST falls the snow, O lady mine,
Sprinkling the lawn with crystals fine.

But by the gods we won't repine
While we're together,
We'll chat and rhyme, and kiss and dine,
Defying weather.

So stir the fire and pour the wine,
And let those sea-green eyes divine
Pour their love-madness into mine:

I don't care whether
'Tis snow or sun or rain or shine
If we're together.

This menu would be appropriate for a wedding dinner or a shower luncheon or dinner.

Today's Recipes

Chicken Croquettes—Remove the meat from the bones of a well cooked fowl, return the bones and skin to the liquor in which the chicken was cooked and boil the liquor down to half quantity. Mince the meat and make a very small amount of white sauce, sufficiently thickened to hold the chicken together, and shape into croquettes. Roll them in egg and cracker crumbs, having seasoned the mixture to taste, and set aside for several hours. Croquettes fry better and look better if allowed to stand for a while after the eggs and crumbs are applied than when fried at once. Fry in deep fat to a golden brown. A bit of green pepper added to the croquettes makes a nice seasoning.

Mushroom Sauce—Place a piece of butter the size of an egg in a saucepan and add two tablespoons flour. Blend the two and gradually add the chicken stock (cooked down with the bones) to the amount of one cup; the stock to have been strained before using. When this sauce has thickened, add just enough cream to give the desired consistency for pouring over the croquettes. Add a cup of mushrooms which have been peeled, cut in pieces and sautéed in butter. Serve over the croquettes.

Ginger Ale Salad—Soak two tablespoons gelatin in one-half cup cold water for ten minutes. Boil together one cup water, one-half cup sugar, one-half lemon cut in slices two leaves fresh mint, until sugar is melted. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. When cool, strain and add two cups ginger ale and pour into a large shallow pan. When ready to serve, cut in squares and place on shredded green lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Suggestions
Spots on Furniture
Those white spots that are so apt to remain on a table after a bowl of flowers or a moist tumbler has been standing on it and the whitish spots known as "fog" on furniture, namely, require the same treatment, namely, wringing a cloth as dry as possible from weak ammonia water and rubbing spot with this. That will restore the color; then restore the finish by polishing with your favorite furniture polish.

Alcohol spilled on furniture will leave a white spot, which can be removed by rubbing with spirits of camphor.

White spots left by hot dishes will disappear if touched up with a brush dipped in spirits of nitre and immediately rubbed with a cloth moistened with sweet oil.

Important Marketing Notes.
Ask the butcher to cut off the rib end from the rib roast of beef you select. It will make a good soup, while if left on and roasted with the meat it will be largely wasted.

Choose medium-sized carrots that are crisp when broken and feel firm to the touch. Leaves should be green and fresh. Buy fresh carrots in bunches; those sold by the pound are cold storage carrots—buy the smaller ones.

Select radishes that are small and crisp, and the leaves should be fresh. Select fruits and vegetables yourself, and remember it is quite important that these be fresh.

Ask for the foreleg or neck of lamb for the stew, or if your family prefers fat meat, select the plate.

Some of you may get a kick out of watching calories diminish. I get more out of watching my weight line go down on a weight chart. It would take up too much space to tell you how to make one, but if you will go to the public library and look up my book Diet for Children, on page 286 you will find a picture of one with directions how to use it. (This is the only one of its type that I know of that has been published.) You can purchase pads ruled off in little squares, and make some charts for yourself.

Reducers need a good scale. All families should have one for it is one of the best pieces of furniture a household can have. Not infrequently baby scales are purchased when the new baby arrives. It would be better to get a larger scale that can be used after babyhood and for the rest of the family, too. It won't cost very much more.

The baby can be placed in a basket and weighed on it as accurately as on the baby scales. You would have to get the regular physician's scales for the small "automatic" bath room scales with the dial on the face cannot be used for the baby's weighing for it doesn't register the ounces accurately enough.

DIET AND HEALTH

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Caloric Bookkeeping

Miss E. has devised a daily caloric bookkeeping system which she says helps her to reduce, for it keeps up her interest and continually keeps before her mind's eye the idea of how many calories she has to lose, rather than pounds. Briefly it is this:

She weighs 140 pounds and wants to lose 30, as her normal weight is but 110. Thirty pounds of fat at 4000 calories a pound totals 120,000, so she is harboring 120,000 C. more than she should. Every day she deducts the number she takes less than her maintenance diet (which she counts as 2000), for she knows her excess poundage will have to supply that. When she takes a brisk walk of an hour, she also deducts 150 C. for that. She loves to see these undesirable calories gradually diminishing. (They had gone down to 92,000 and with them seven pounds of excess fat, when she wrote us last.)

Some of you may get a kick out of watching calories diminish. I get more out of watching my weight line go down on a weight chart. It would take up too much space to tell you how to make one, but if you will go to the public library and look up my book Diet for Children, on page 286 you will find a picture of one with directions how to use it. We have instructions on gaining and losing weight which can be obtained by following column rules.

"Is there any danger in giving away clothes that have belonged to a tubercular patient? The room he died in has been fumigated with sulphur. It is necessary to destroy the bed and bedding and clothes, if they have been sent to the cleaner first? Some of the clothes have not been worn for a year, the time he spent in bed."

First let me tell you that fumigation by sulphur or formaldehyde is not effective in destroying germs. R. Soap and water, with a little lysol or carbolic acid in it, to cleanse the woodwork and the floors and furniture, and thorough sunning and airing, are all that are necessary.

The patient's clothes can be sent to the cleaners or washed in gasoline. (There is no danger now in the case anyway, for the germs do not live long outside the body.) The bed clothing can be boiled, and the mattress can be scrubbed over with soap and water, the same as the furniture, and put in the sun for several hours, until thoroughly dried.

We have a list of books on tuberculosis written by authorities for the layman which can be obtained by following column rules.

LIVING AND LOVING

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Even two weeks before you expect to be married is not too late to break a marriage off if you are not sure of yourself. A jealous, nagging disposition is not likely to be reformed by the wedding ceremony. Only a realization of one's own selfish nature and the misery it brings to loved ones, coupled with a determined, earnest effort to change will do that.

A prospective bride writes: "DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I need advice badly and know of no one that can give it as well as you. Of course it's a man. I've kept steady company with one fellow for two years and now am to be married in about two weeks."

"Virginia, I care a lot for him, but he is so jealous; he is always nagging, accusing and throwing up other men to me. He won't trust me; says he loves me, yet abuses me at times. Do you think I must make a mistake to take the step that might mean disaster?"

"Your advice is needed and certainly would be highly valued."

"UNHAPPY."

I'd be afraid to take a chance, dear, if he makes you unhappy now, when he should be doing everything possible to make you happy, what will he do when your whole happiness rests with him? He is thoroughly selfish, and my advice is to break the engagement. It is a pity you did not do it before.

If you think you cannot do that, postpone it for a time and tell him very frankly why. Tell him that you are afraid to trust yourself to him, and that unless he trusts you and ceases nagging you will break off with him completely.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I just wonder if you could answer this question for me. If you do I will appreciate it greatly. Can a girl 18 years old wear long, white sailor pants? I am going to Coney Island and some one told me I could get put out of an inside attraction house. Do you think that is so? Is it all right to dance in one of the dance halls with those pants on? I would love to wear them, but then it wouldn't be so nice if I got arrested. Do you think they look 'tough,' even though I wouldn't travel in them?"

"LORELEI."

PETER'S ADVENTURES

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

A Newcomer With New COMPLAINT

Peter rubbed his eyes. The sun was shining as brightly as could be. Had it played tricks with his sight? Where did those flying spots of bright color come from? Where had they gone?

To be sure everything was very gay down in the swamps, but he could see nothing as brilliant as those flying spots had been. The flowers could dance to their hearts' content as long as they stayed upon their stems—certainly it was no blossom that had whizzed by him!

Had he really seen something or was he just imagining it? Peter felt all right, but after the night he had just spent there was no telling—maybe something was the matter with him.

Again the boy rubbed his eyes while the Wild Geese looked at him in astonishment, wondering what in the world was the matter with their Two-Legged friend. Before they could ask, a sweet voice sighed:

"I wish the Two-Legs would stop taking Cardinals captive, but I suppose they never will, not while our coats are red and there is a Grosbeak left among us who can sing."

To the front! To the right! To the left! The boy glanced in every direction, but nothing or nobody did he see except his friends, the Wild Geese. Yet the same voice went on speaking.

POSTAL NINE TAKES NARROW VICTORY FROM ROTARY CLUB

The Post Office nine narrowly escaped defeat at the hands of the luckless Rotary Club in an American League softball game at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Monday night, but finally nosed out a 12 to 10 victory with a three-run rally in the last half of the eighth inning.

Rotarians made sixteen hits against twelve for the mailmen and were ahead at several stages of the contest. The postal nine enjoyed a fat inning in the third when seven hits combined with errors produced seven runs.

Kimber was on the mound for Rotary and fanned four batters.

BOWERSVILLE TEAM GENEROUS HEARTED ABOUT BALL GAMES

The Bowersville Bayliffs presented the Springfield Bartlett Clothiers with a 12 to 6 victory in a baseball game on the Bowersville diamond Sunday afternoon.

It was purely a donation. The Bayliffs had no one but themselves to blame for the setback inasmuch as errors were indirectly responsible for ten of Springfield's runs.

Bowersville rapped out fifteen hits to twelve for its opponents, but Springfield played errorless ball in the field.

Guyton for Springfield and Taylor for the Bayliffs were the opposing pitchers, but neither finished. Valentine succeeded Guyton and Mercer replaced Taylor before the hostilities ended.

The Clothiers scored twice in the first on a hit batsman, a sacrifice and two hits. Three more in the second resulted from as many errors, a walk and two fielders' choices. An error and two hits produced another marker in the fourth.

In the fifth the visitors again played three runners, due to a pair of passes and two safe hits. Two hits, a sacrifice and a fielders' choice yielded two tallies in the seventh and in the ninth another run was scored without the aid of a hit.

After scoring once in the third on two hits and a sacrifice, Bowersville had its big inning in the fifth when the fielders' choice, a walk, two doubles, a triple and a single netted four runs. In the eighth a triple followed by a single was good for Bowersville's last counter.

Twelve strikeouts were registered during the game, three by each of the four pitchers who saw action.

Bowersville expects to book a return game with the Springfield nine for sometime in July and next Sunday will play a team out of Dayton, the game starting at 2:30 o'clock.

MAY DENY SIMPSON
HIS RECOGNITION

NEW YORK, June 11.—Recognition of George Simpson's time of 9.25 seconds for the 100-yard dash in the N. C. A. A. track meet at Chicago Saturday seemed remote today because the Ohio State flyer used starting blocks.

The A. A. U. has not officially approved starting blocks, a recent innovation among sprinters, and Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U., pointed out that the record stood little chance of being recognized on this score.

If the A. A. U. approves the starting blocks at its November meeting, it will have to make the approval retroactive if Simpson's mark is accepted as an official world record.

WORK RESUMED ON DOG RACING PLANT

Following a layoff of several weeks, construction work on the grandstand at the Fairfield dog track, nearing completion, was resumed Monday by a force of men under John Lemmon, Dayton contractor.

It is the expectation of the Fairfield Amusement Co., Ltd., promoter of the enterprise, to open the track for its first meeting June 29. Officials of the company believe that fifteen more working days will be required to complete the stands, kennels and track.

At the time construction work was suspended several weeks ago, it was reported that the company backing the project had failed to meet estimates due under terms of the contract with the result that Lemmon discontinued the work.

Since that time it is said, financial matters have been straightened out and a force of about twenty carpenters is working on the stands.

GEORGE W. SHANKS CALLED BY DEATH

George W. Shanks, 80, died at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of his son, Branson Shanks, near Bowersville as the result of diabetes. He was born and reared in Pike County and has lived with his son for the past year.

Mr. Shanks is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Shanks, and four children: Branson, near Bowersville; Oscar of Jamestown, Roy of Hillsboro and Mrs. Joseph Hill-debrand of Locust Grove.

One sister, Mrs. Rachel Mustard of Rardan, Scioto County, and a brother Jesse Shanks, also survive. Brief services will be held at the home of his son Thursday afternoon, and the body will be taken to Mt. Zion where funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock with burial in Mt. Zion Cemetery.

MAY DENY SIMPSON
HIS RECOGNITION

NEW YORK, June 11.—Recognition of George Simpson's time of 9.25 seconds for the 100-yard dash in the N. C. A. A. track meet at Chicago Saturday seemed remote today because the Ohio State flyer used starting blocks.

The A. A. U. has not officially approved starting blocks, a recent innovation among sprinters, and Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U., pointed out that the record stood little chance of being recognized on this score.

If the A. A. U. approves the starting blocks at its November meeting, it will have to make the approval retroactive if Simpson's mark is accepted as an official world record.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

Ever Swanson, recruit Red outfielder, who is patrolling the center garden regularly for the Rhinemen now, already appears to be one of the best speed merchants since Max Carey's falling legs slowed him up.

Swanson demonstrated his speed Sunday against the Giants when he bunted to Terry at first base and beat it out, ran to third when Critz bunted to the same place and came home when Terry threw wild to third. He had home stolen at another time but Ford fouled one off and he had to go back.

Now Tom Swopes of the Cincinnati Reds has been sent down to the first pitch every time he gets to first base, which is frequently. Swopes believes that, given that opportunity, Swanes would develop into a base-running sensation and prove a drawing card for the Reds, a team without a stand-out performer which is sorely in need of a drawing-card or something.

Swanes is one important reason why the Reds elevated themselves from the cellar to sixth place, and appear to be going places and doing things.

He has been hitting well, getting on base often, running the bases in a manner to make Bill Zittman look slow and fielding his position ably, although lacking in knowledge of where the batsman is likely to hit.

Swanson improved his batting on a piece of advice issued by an umpire, who told him he was standing too close to the plate. He told him to stand farther back, hold the bat at the end and take a healthy cut at the ball and things immediately began to look better.

For the last few seasons the Reds have been kept from falling out of the league by a crack defense and a superb pitching staff. Hendricks sought to improve his attack this year and all three departments have been miserably.

The pitching has been weak, the fielding is a little better than it was a few weeks ago, and the hitting has been nothing to write home about. As a result the Reds are nearly 100,000 paid admissions behind last year and it's not all due to the rain either.

Because George Simpson, the Ohio State dash man who lowered the 100-yard record at Chicago Saturday used starting blocks, the A. A. U. will deny him record recognition. It is said Simpson's time cut a fifth of a second from a record that had stood for twenty-three years. Writing from the standpoint of one who knows nothing about starting blocks, it would seem that the union's position is well taken since the mechanical contrivance gave him an advantage over the old-timers, the blocks being new and not yet recognized by the amateurs.

"HAPPY DAY WHEN I FOUND NEW KONJOLA"

Lady Suffered For Two Years From A Disordered Stomach Until Konjola Banished Her Misery

"It certainly was a happy day for me when I started to use Konjola," said Mrs. Mary Edmondson, 38 Burns Avenue, Dayton. "During the last two years I suffered from a weak and disordered stomach. I was unable to leave the house for a long time. Indigestion, gas, bloating and belching spells followed every meal. "Konjola was so sincerely recommended to me that I gave it a trial. Lucky day! Konjola was what I should have had in the first place. It went right to work and in an amazingly short time it restored my digestion and improved my appetite. Today, I am well and happy, enjoying life and praising Konjola with all my heart and soul. It is, indeed, the master medicine."

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Galaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Adv.

POSTAL NINE TAKES NARROW VICTORY FROM ROTARY CLUB

The Post Office nine narrowly escaped defeat at the hands of the luckless Rotary Club in an American League softball game at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Monday night, but finally nosed out a 12 to 10 victory with a three-run rally in the last half of the eighth inning.

Rotarians made sixteen hits against twelve for the mailmen and were ahead at several stages of the contest. The postal nine enjoyed a fat inning in the third when seven hits combined with errors produced seven runs.

Kimber was on the mound for Rotary and fanned four batters.

BOWERSVILLE TEAM GENEROUS HEARTED ABOUT BALL GAMES

The Bowersville Bayliffs presented the Springfield Bartlett Clothiers with a 12 to 6 victory in a baseball game on the Bowersville diamond Sunday afternoon.

It was purely a donation. The Bayliffs had no one but themselves to blame for the setback inasmuch as errors were indirectly responsible for ten of Springfield's runs.

Bowersville rapped out fifteen hits to twelve for its opponents, but Springfield played errorless ball in the field.

Guyton for Springfield and Taylor for the Bayliffs were the opposing pitchers, but neither finished. Valentine succeeded Guyton and Mercer replaced Taylor before the hostilities ended.

The Clothiers scored twice in the first on a hit batsman, a sacrifice and two hits. Three more in the second resulted from as many errors, a walk and two fielders' choices. An error and two hits produced another marker in the fourth.

In the fifth the visitors again plated three runners, due to a pair of passes and two safe hits. Two hits, a sacrifice and a fielders' choice yielded two tallies in the seventh and in the ninth another run was scored without the aid of a hit.

After scoring once in the third on two hits and a sacrifice, Bowersville had its big inning in the fifth when a fielders' choice and a walk, two doubles, a triple and a single netted four runs. In the eighth a triple followed by a single was good for Bowersville's last counter.

Twelve strikeouts were registered during the game, three by each of the four pitchers who saw action.

Bowersville expects to book a return game with the Springfield team for sometime in July and next Sunday will play a team out of Dayton, the game starting at 2:30 o'clock. Score:

WILL SEAT 300 AT CONCERT TUESDAY

More than 300 chairs have been obtained through the efforts of Foody Post, American Legion, to provide seating accommodations for Xenians attending the farewell public band concert of the O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the pavilion in Shawnee Park.

The concert is being sponsored by the Legion and in the advent of adverse weather, will be postponed until Wednesday night at the same hour.

The Home band, under the direction of Prof. H. E. Seall, faces a busy month of engagements in various parts of the state and the public concert has been arranged to give Xenians one more chance to hear the group with its present personnel.

WORK RESUMED ON DOG RACING PLANT

Following a layoff of several weeks, construction work on the grandstand at the Fairfield dog track, nearing completion, was resumed Monday by a force of men under John Lemmon, Dayton contractor.

It is the expectation of the Fairfield Amusement Co., Ltd., promoter of the enterprise, to open the track for its first meeting June 23. Officials of the company believe that fifteen more working days will be required to complete the stands, kennels and track.

At the time construction work was suspended several weeks ago, it was reported that the company backing the project had failed to meet estimates due under terms of the contract with the result that Lemmon discontinued the work. Since that time it is said, financial matters have been straightened out and a force of about twenty carpenters are working on the stands.

GEORGE W. SHANKS CALLED BY DEATH

George W. Shanks, 80, died at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of his son, Branson Shanks, near Bowersville as the result of diabetes. He was born and reared in Pike County and has lived with his son for the past year.

Mr. Shanks is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Shanks, and four children: Branson, near Bowersville; Oscar of Jamestown, Roy of Hillsboro and Mrs. Joseph Hill-debrand of Locust Grove.

One sister, Mrs. Rachel Mustard of Rardan, Scioto County, and a brother Jesse Shanks, also survive.

Brief services will be held at the home of his son Thursday afternoon, and the body will be taken to Mt. Zion where funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock with burial in Mt. Zion Cemetery.

MAY DENY SIMPSON HIS RECOGNITION

NEW YORK, June 11.—Recognition of George Simpson's time of 9.25 seconds for the 100-yard dash in the N. C. A. A. track meet at Chicago Saturday seemed remote today because the Ohio State flyer used starting blocks.

The A. A. U. has not officially approved starting blocks, a recent innovation among sprinters, and Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U., pointed out that the record stood little chance of being recognized on this score.

If the A. A. U. approves the starting blocks at its November meeting, it will have to take the approval retroactive if Simpson's mark is accepted as an official world's record.

The Theater

Now that the movies have begun holding "world premieres" outside of New York City, folks living west of the Bronx may need a bit of advice on the proper manner to attend these first nights.

For a time New York and Los Angeles had a monopoly of the first showings, but when "Show Boat" was given premiers in Miami and Palm Beach, Fla., and New Orleans, La., was selected for the premiere of "Evangeline", the ice was broken.

A confirmed first nighter has prepared a list of instructions for provincials who may wish to attend a premiere. The formula must result in a wretched evening but you will have the satisfaction of knowing you have attended one in the correct Broadway manner. Here's the way you do it:

1.—Be sure to make up to look like the movie star you resemble most. Tuxedo or evening gown is obligatory. If you wear a mustache you may be taken for Ronald Colman. Without a mustache the crowd will be sure you are George Bancroft. If a woman, you Never since Dame Nellie Melba made her debut in Convent Garden has a singer so stirred an English audience, it was said. Rosa Ponselle was born in Meriden, Conn., was educated in the public schools of Meriden and under private tutors in New York City. She joined the Metropolitan in 1918. She is of Italian descent and was the first American singer to make her debut in a leading role with Caruso.

Edwin Caruso, producer, director will address a nationwide radio audience as guest speaker on the Palmolive Hour over the NBC chain June 12 at 9:30 p. m., eastern daylight saving time.

Mr. John Ralls Derrick, who with his brother, Harry, has conducted a meat market on W. Main St., has accepted a position as meat cutter in a meat store in St. Marys, O. Mr. Foster Clemmer has accepted a position as clerk at the Xenia National Bank. Mr. Harland Fudge has disposed of his interest in the tin shop of Fudge and Smith to his partner, Elton Smith. A tax levy of 8.55 mills for the coming year was fixed by County Commissioners. A schedule of nine races and purses amounting to $3,300 for the Greene County fair has been announced by Mr. William Dodds, chairman of the speed committee.

will be pointed out as being anyone from Janet Gaynor to Sophie Tucker.

2.—Arrive at the theater an hour before "curtain". Stand on the sidewalk for fifteen minutes looking haughtily over the heads of the gaping crowd. Look at wrist watch every five minutes and frown as though the mayor, with whom you are to see the show, is late.

3.—Though the lobby will be jammed to overflowing do not move on into the auditorium. Keep looking at your watch.

4.—Having at last been ushered to your seat do not sit immediately but stand, obstructing view of spectators in rear seats and cast sweeping glances over the auditorium as though you were looking for your old friend Douglas Fairbanks.

5.—Throughout the picture hide your interest and yawn frequently, tapping the mouth with a Park Ave. gesture.

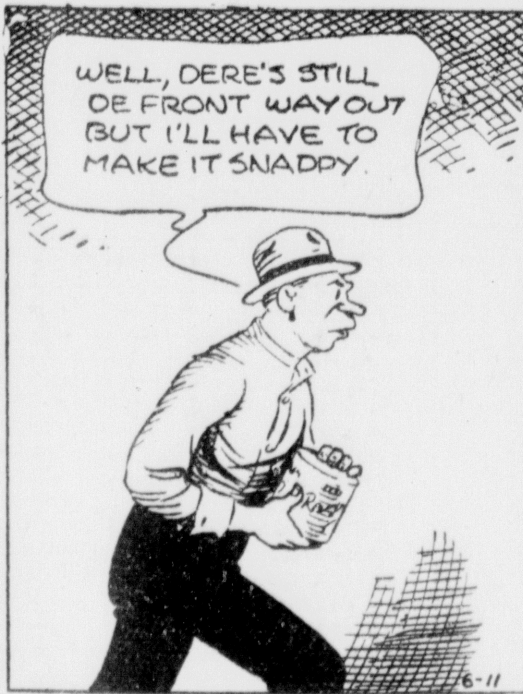

6.—As you pass from the theater nod to acquaintances and murmur: "Not a bad effort but poor technique and the tempo—Hm! the Germans do it better."

Rosa Ponselle, Metropolitan opera star, recently scored a brilliant triumph in London, England, in the role of "Norma" in the opera of that name.

GREENE COUNTIANS
FILED 44 CLAIMS
BASED ON INJURIES

According to statistics compiled by the division of safety and hygiene, Industrial Commission of Ohio, there were 44 compensation claims for injuries or occupational diseases filed with the Commission by Greene County claimants in 1928, including four fatalities.

Of the total number of accidents none resulted in permanent total disability, six in permanent partial disability, 136 caused over seven days loss of time, fifty-three seven days or less and 245 caused no lost time but necessitated medical attention. All accidents and occupational diseases from which claims arose occasioned 31,740 days loss of time to workers in the county.

While the grand total of 229,283 mishaps in Ohio industry, including 1108 fatalities, twenty-seven permanent total disabilities and 2,023 partial disabilities, is an improvement over the state records for 1927 on an accident exposure basis and an accident exposure basis in the accident situation in the state as a whole in the first five months of 1929 is shown by the same basis of computation, Supt. Thos. P. Kearns of the Safety and Hygiene Division recently requests the closer co-operation of employers and workers in the efforts of the Division and other safety agencies, both state and local, in an effort to improve a condition that is yearly exacting a heavy toll against the ranks of Ohio workers and sapping the economic resources of both employers and workers. Ohio accidents in 1928 having, it is conservatively estimated, cost workers $5,500,000.00 in wages and Ohio industry approximately $90,000,000.00 in direct and indirect costs.

"The industrial accident situation will not show the desired improvement," says Mr. Kearns, "until the division and associate agencies in the work of accident prevention succeed in permeating the industries of Greene County and every other county in Ohio with safety consciousness, but once this is done we are certain to have fewer accidents in our industries and the spirit of safety thus engendered will have its reflection in greater safety on the street and in the home."

CHICAGO, June 11.—A million dollars worth of radios and equipment and 30,000 dealers to see it... music everywhere you turned... snatches of technical lingo... Madame Schuman-Heink in person... embryo radio engineers from a Milwaukee school trying to seem unimpressed... snappily suited engineering experts.

That was the radio show, or more properly, the fifth annual convention of the Radio Manufacturers association at Chicago. And if you were radio-minded it was worth the price of a trip from almost anywhere you want to name.

Progress Evident
The radio industry most certainly has made magnificent strides forward since the last convention show a year ago. In fact, the new inventions, improvements and refinements presented for the first time to the public, presage beyond all doubt a new era in home reception.

As, for example, take the new quently sent the listener in the ordinary small home to bed with ringing ears as a result of the "barrel effect" introduced by the over-accutuation of booming low notes.

Speakers Pitched Higher
All that has been changed in this year's dynamic. The speakers have been pitched higher and they are faithful in the reproduction of low, medium and high notes, but without the boom-boom of the drum and organ bass being any more accentuated than is the treble of the violin and flute.

Another notable advance in loud speaking design comes from the introduction of a new condenser speaker. This speaker, built flat, instead of drum-like operates without a cone, without a magnetic coil and without a floating needle. It is one-eighth of an inch thick over all and as faithful as the dynamic in covering the entire musical range, with no particular pitch being overly emphasized. It further appears to be even more faithful than the average dynamic in the reproduction of voice in its natural tone.

Colin Kyle, of San Jose, Cal., the inventor of the condenser speaker, is only 34 years old, and has been crippled since childhood. That makes his invention all the more interesting.

Bizarre Cabinets
Cabinet design is laying an important part in radio set lines this year. All sorts of bizarre cabinets are being manufactured. Cabinet manufacturers have incorporated the finest work of their furniture craftsmen in making possible finished sets which blend harmoniously with the furnishing of the average home.

Then, there's a new quirk, as far as convenience is concerned shown at the convention. It's a remote control idea. The missus can control the radio from the kitchen sink, turning it on or off at will. Or a handy button at the telephone makes it possible to gossip with Mrs. Jones without competing with "She's My Baby" done on the saxophone by Station WHOZIT.

GARDEN CLUB NOTES

These are the weeks when attention to the garden must be unremitting, and zeal unabated. If there are to be flowers blooming there this August and September, and next April, May and June.

Shrubs should be trimmed now in preparation for next year, because new twigs will soon be forming, and if they are cut off, next spring's flowers will go with them. Spirea should not be cut back like a hedge—it makes the bushes stubby and ugly; if it must be trimmed, cut out the old wood down to the ground. When spirea has grown too tall and is straggly and unsightly, it is best to take it out, and put in new plants.

Most perennial and biennial seeds should be planted now to bloom next summer; your seed catalogues will tell you which ones. Foxglove seeds should be in now, and delphiniums as soon as the seed is ripe.

June is the month of roses; it is 245-type power tubes in push-pull combination, bringing tonal qualities of the new radio receivers to a higher plane than ever before. Or the new loud speakers to match the improved audio systems.

Examination of the speakers exhibited and demonstrated indicates that dynamics will be the predominant feature of the year. But the dynamics are vastly different and vastly superior to those introduced a year ago, when the dynamic first caught the fancy of the public after the discovery that this type of reproducer brought out low tones totally lost in the magnetic—then in vogue.
